The late Judge Jerry B'ack was very careless in money matters. An incident is related by one of his intimate friends that is characteristic of the dead jurist: "During the first year of Judge Black's care as Attorney General," said my informant." I was a frequent visitor of the Department of Justice. I was young then as a lawyer, and very glad to have an opportunity of listening to the conversation of so great a lawyer as Judge Black. One morning a man entered and handed a plees of paper to the Attorney General. 'Dear, me,' he said, running his fingers through his hair, 'I thought I had paid that before.' 'No, sir,' said the man. The Judge reached forward for his check-book, but not finding it at once, he put his hands into his pockets and fumbled around for some changes. He drew out a handful ob hills and papers, 'Ah, abl what is this?' he said, unfolding a paper and comparing it with the bill in front of him. 'You informal liar,' he exclaimed, excitedly jumping up and seizing the man by the collar, 'here is your own receipt for this bill dated only ten days ago.' The san performed a war dance around the office, the Judge acting as chief instructor. His heels frequently came in contact with his head. He was finally kicked into the street. In looking through his desk the Judge found three separate receipts from this man for the same account. Mr. J. T. Woodward, of Lockport, N. Y., has grown this year a crop of six-rowed barley, estimated at eighty bushels per acre. It was grown on land that had been heavily manured for mangels the previous season. The grain of wheat consists of four parts which must always be taken into consideration in granulation—the bran, germ, gluten and starch. The separation of the two tatter from the former is all there is necessary in scientific milling, but that is a great deal.

LUNCHEON DISH.—Trim the beards from as many oysters as may be required, wrap is each in a very thin shaving of int streaky bacon (cold boiled bacon is the best); run inem one after the other on a skewer, and hold them over a toast in front of a clear fire until the bacon is slightly crisp; serve on the toast immediately.

VEAL FRITTERS.—For these the remains of cold yeal should be cut into small nest piece; dip each in batter and fry a light brown; in serving pile them high on a dish, pouring over them a good brown sauce, well thickened with tomatoes when in season, or, if not, the gravy must itself be thick and strongly flavored with tomatoe suce.

Skim milk fed with a little oil meal and oats was found excellent when fed to calves at the Wisconsin Experiment Station. The young animals were kepthealthy and growing, but not fat. By pouring boiling water upon beans the weevil can be destroyed, but to prevent injury to the beans the scalding should be done in a colander, and they should be spread out and dried instantly.

Doctors have done great things for the world. But when it comes right down to the real curing of disease, it must be admitted that Brown's Iron Bitters has done enough to earn the generous gratitude of this whole present generation, including the medical profession. There are
